

New Sydney Hotel

Since adopting the Décor storage system our business has noticed a marked decrease in the costs associated with food storage, estimated to be around $2000 per annum. This amount is over and above the savings associated with more efficient portion control, less food wastage and more accurate stock management. The other major gain is the reduction in landfill generated by disposable containers allowing the business to pursue more environmentally sound practices. I would recommend the Décor storage system to any business serious about lowering kitchen costs while maintain the highest standards in food handling.
